ORGANUG

1981-82

Some of us had been together ever since childhood. As time went on and others came, our class grew to be interlocking circles of friends. Then in a tragic incident one of us, then another, and again another was lost. Each gave to us the gifts of their spirit, friendliness and enthusiasm. But the ultimate gift they gave to us was the strength to put away our fears and accept the truth that we really need each other.

It is with our deepest feelings and admiration that we, the class of 1982, dedicate the 1982 Organng to the memory of Robert Estes, Roger Hanusek, and Eric Lesswing.

I know I'll never lose affection
For people and things that went before.
I know I'll often stop and think about them.
In My Life.

Yearbooks are made up of memories, and in that respect this one is no different. It has been our goal, however, to create a most unique ORGANUG; one which captures memories and thoughts in a theme common to all of us. To us, the words of "In My Life" by Lennon and McCartney are such a theme. The references to places remembered and to friends still here or gone seem to well express the feelings and experiences about the past year at York High School.

We are deeply grateful to all of those people who have so strongly supported this goal. Administrators, teachers, staff and students who were so positive even when it all seemed impossible. Their following, in addition to making this yearbook a reality, has made the class of 1982 a stronger unit.

We hope you will enjoy the 1982 ORGANUG today and for many years ahead and that it will help you to remember with affection this year of your life.

IRIN

When you were with us, our days were just a little brighter, our smiles a little warmer, and our lives so much more meaningful. I don't know what it was about you, but you had a way of making everyone feel that something was missing and it seemed as though we couldn't recreate the past experiences without you. But time has a way of numbing the pain, even if it can't erase the void created by your absence.

Each time we hear a song or see a hand extended in friendship, we are reminded of you. The way you lived seems to epitomize the very best the human spirit can offer. Now, with the light of your example before us, we continue on in the course of life, hoping that you sit

On November 3, 1981, the choruses of York High School presented a concert in the memory of Eric Lessing. At the close of the program, the Lessing family presented the school with the key to a baby grand piano, the result of a memorial fund initiated in Eric's name.

We wish to thank all of the family and friends who gave so generously to the memory of our very special friend.
